Dear Sir:

I saw in the Current Events paper last winter that quarters dated from 1916—1924 were valuable. The Current Events put your name in the paper and said send them to you, and you would send the money for them. I wrote you a card asking the value of them I never did received an answer from you. I wrote to the Current Events and they paid send them to you. I am sending you a quarter dated 1917 so please give me your best price for the quarter. The money will come in so good for me because I am so anxious to attend college, and am financily unable to attend. I certainly will be a happy boy to go to my mail box and find out that you have sent me a check for the quarter. I am sure the quarter is valuable because the current events said it was. Please let give me your best price for the quarter.

Yours truly,

Dear Sir:

Current Events published an absolutely erroneous account about 1916-24 quarter dollars. There is no premium on these unless brilliant, uncirculated, as they leave the mint, and then not much of a premium.

They published our name without any authorization, as we do not buy coins. I am herewith returning the piece you sent as it is only worth 25¢ and no more.

Very truly yours,

Curator
